Title Landsec recognised for leadership on climate action
From Land Securities Group PLC (“Landsec”)
Date 30/10/17

Landsec has been globally recognised for its leadership on climate change by the CDP, the non-profit global environmental disclosure platform.

Landsec has been named in CDP’s Climate A List, which highlights the top 5% of companies who participate in the organisation’s climate change programme, cementing our position as the UK listed sector leader and demonstrating our long-term commitment to addressing climate change.

The CDP climate change programme scores companies on their actions and strategy in relation to climate change. Thousands of companies submit annual climate disclosures to CDP for independent assessment against its scoring methodology.

Landsec’s commitment to measuring its environmental impact, setting ambitious goals linked to climate science and integrating sustainability into its business practices have been recognised by a place on the CDP Climate A List, the highest possible score.

Landsec Chief Executive Robert Noel said: “I’m delighted that Landsec has received an A score for climate in this year’s CDP as it reflects our commitment to science-based carbon reduction and demonstrates our strong leadership position. Acting on climate change and anticipating future risks is critical to providing the right space for our customers and communities, helping businesses and people to thrive.”

CDP’s Executive Chair Paul Dickinson said: “Congratulations to all the companies that made it onto the Climate A List this year. It’s inspiring to see so many taking bold action to mitigate the risks of climate change and grasp the opportunities that come with the transition to a sustainable economy.”

The CDP A List inclusion is just the latest example of Landsec’s leadership in sustainability. We have also been recognised for our strong performance in this area by several other key sustainability indices which score companies on their environmental, social and governance performance.
